Interpreter for annual evaluation of Afghanaid's Families' Empowerment Project (FEM)

The overall objective of the consultancy

Afghanaid's Families' Empowerment Project (FEM) (which includes FEMAS) is a four year programme implemented with generous funding from UK Aid Direct. The project's goal is to let women contribute to poverty reduction and gender equality through exercising greater power over their lives and the wellbeing of their families. The project addresses the current gaps in development programming combining income generation for women, promoting women's engagement in community governance, and raising awareness of family planning and early marriage. The primary beneficiaries of the project are 10,500 poor and vulnerable women in Aybak and Hazrat-i-Sultan districts in Samangan province and Lal-wa-Sarjangal district in Ghor province. The project is designed as an innovative and multi-faceted approach to leverage the transformative impact of women's economic empowerment in the household and community in order to improve women's access to their rights in other aspects of their lives, contributing to poverty reduction and the promotion of equality.
